Sunday, September 30th, 2018: The “Schoharie Tribe” A Controversial History. Back Porch, Lansing Manor. 1378 state route 30, North Blenheim NY 12130-1710. 1 PM. For info see website or call 1(800)724-0309.

In this talk Pritchard will strive for a better understanding of the group of Native Americans we call "The Schoharie Tribe," with a focus on the Middleburgh/Gilboa region. Starting with the arrival of early -pre Haudenosuanee in 500, he will comment on Dr Edward V Curtain's theories about peaceful landsharing by diverse peoples amid plenty. Then he will discuss who "chief Koernig Andante" and his wife might have been (and their mysterious association with young Conrad Weiser) and then who the "Schoharie" tribe might have been, up to the time of the Revolutionary War. He will also discuss his understanding of the word Schoharie and how it seems to reflect an intimate understanding of the land around Middleburgh. Pritchard will reference the work of Dr Curtain, John M. Brown, Nelson Greene, JH French, Jephtha Simms, and Ted Brasser, but also incorporate opinions from local and native historians, who may not necessarily be in agreement.
